We Dedicate . . .

To these people who have given of their lives, energies, and devotions we humbly dedicate this book that it might serve as a token of our thanks for their efforts in making our school one in which we shall always have pride.

As Asheboro High School is dedicated to the promotion of our democratic society through education, so these women have dedicated themselves to education through their unselfish services to our school.

Therefore, we gratefully dedicate this, the eighteenth volume of our year-book, to Mrs. Mildred Criscoe for her untiring spirit in helping the teachers and the students, and to Mrs. Darathy Walker for her work as the Student Council sponsor and our Senior Class advisor.

No words can express our gratitude to these two, so we merely say, "Thank you."

What would we do without them? The patient, understanding, the helpful, ever-ready teachers. The teachers that shape and mold our futures. As the years go by we more fully recognize their value. They are as priceless as diamonds, as necessary as the air we breathe. Where would we be? What would we know, without them? We remember each teacher—the way, when we had problems, all we had to do was ask their help. Their understanding and kindness were the balm that smoothed the wrinkles out of our pathway of life. When and if we are successful, we shall look back and think: "I could never have done it without the wisdom and benignity of my teachers. They were my greatest helpmeets along the long hard road to success."

Let us never forget them, our teachers, our guiding hands.

The Great Day Begins

On With

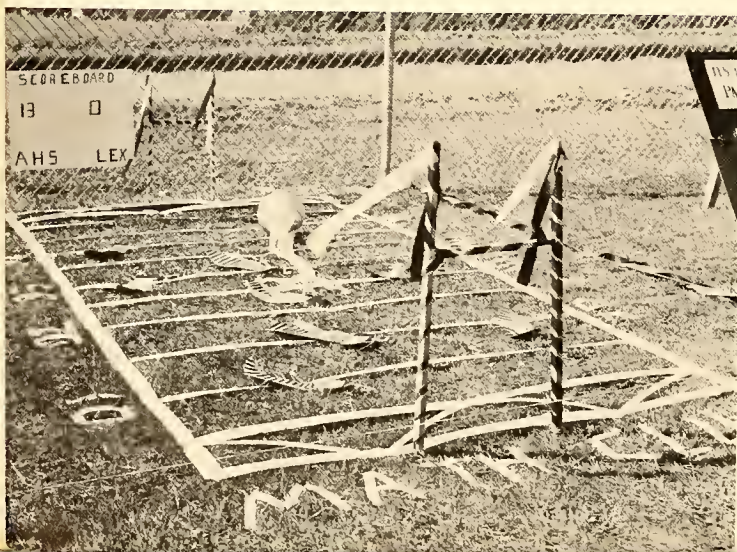

Football Players' Sponsors and Escorts

A GREAT DAY

There was a tingly autumn nip in the afternoon air. Above the chattering and cheering of the crowd could be heard the sound of music as the school band came into view. All types of gayly decorated cars and floats bearing the "Queens For A Day", followed. Long after the covalcode of color had passed, the compliments and exclomotions lingered. As the music faded we turned toward home to get ready for the big night. The air was charged with excitement, like static electricity.

It was a good game! The team played so well that it made our alumni really proud that they could say, "I am a graduate of Asheboro High." The crowd was enthusiastic and needed no coaxing to cheer. There came a solemn moment as everyone waited for "Miss Blue Comet" to be announced. As soon as the winner was announced, however, all bedlam broke loose. Everyone approved the choice.

After the game everyone looked forward to the dance. It was good to see all the old grads and to talk over the events of the day.

The end of the dance brought the end of one of the biggest events during the year at Asheboro High—one to be kept always tucked away with our pleasant memories.
